

Fire Weather Probability for Camp W.G. Williams

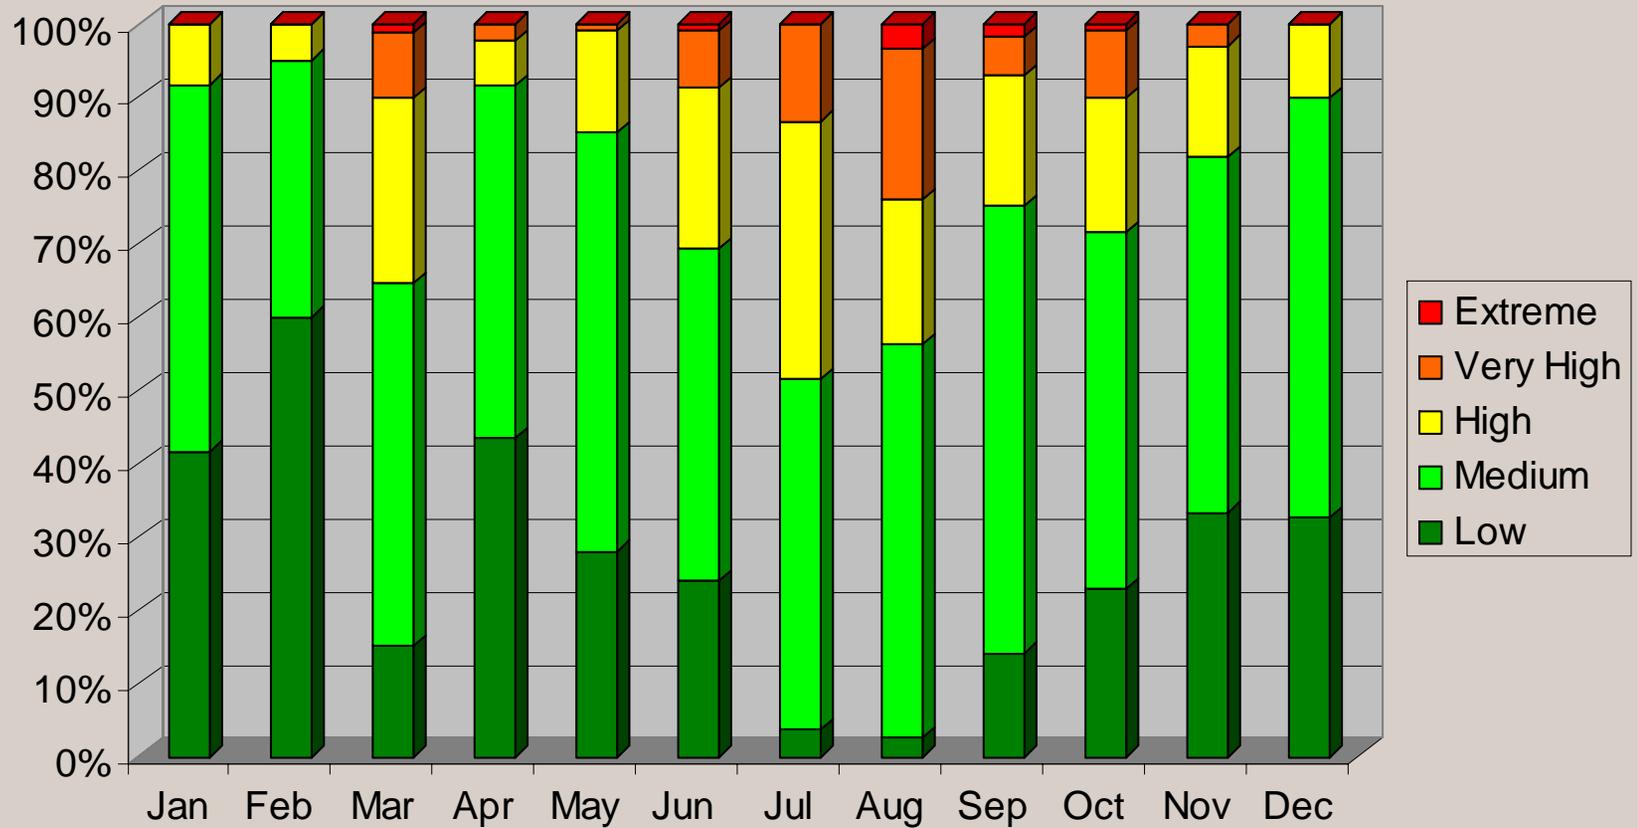

Chart shows relative chance of fire danger by month. Obviously, July and August have the worst dangers, while the winter months have the best. The spike in March is probably because temperatures are warming, the snow has melted but the spring rains have not started. Trainers ought to avoid planning restricted artillery and small arms training for mid-summer – it is likely to be prohibited based upon current Range Regulations.